Linda: I'm so excited for you. It was wonderful having you in the unit. Thanks for making my job easier. Keep in touch. Love, Donna

Linda, I'm so thrilled for you. Let's not forget all we've been through together. Enjoy graduation and all things that come your way. Don't forget us. Love, Sue

Linda, Have a great time in Europe. Enjoy yourself

Linda,

We have gone to school together for six years, and I can remember the first time I truly met you. We were going to contest at Murray. We have come a long way since then. But it was only last year that we truly became friends. I am glad that we became friends. I won't say good-by, because I will see you practically every day for the next four years. I hope you have a great blast at Western (me too) and enjoy all the good times, health, wealth and friends you are entitled to. I am not being sentimental, only truthful.

PATHWAYS

Linda,
It sure has been great knowing you during our years at Tilghman. (It was fun sharing lockers too.) always remember our good ol' homerooms together and never forget this wonderful senior year. Good luck and my God bless you.

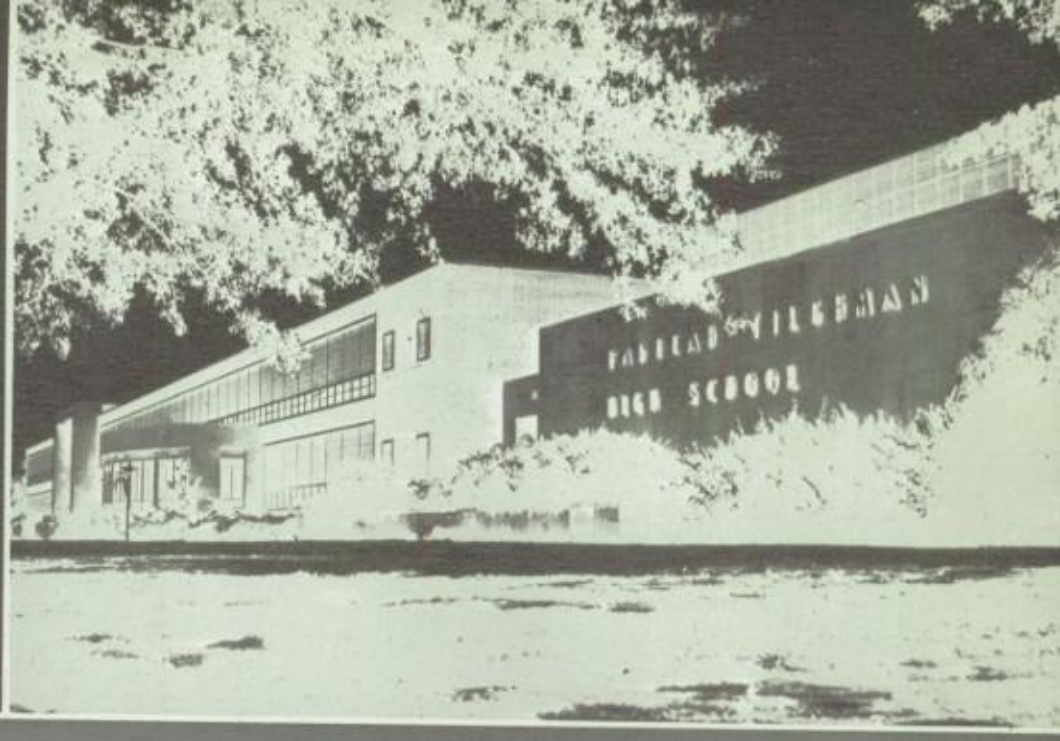
Paducah Tilghman High School in its many moods is reflected by the students in their daily school activities. They possess the vital qualities necessary to give a high school life.

The quiet of night winds, the rustle of blowing leaves, the mystery of the sky, the dark trees, the sun, the rain, the calm, the anxieties of our high school years, the work on a book 'till one, the study we had to do just to earn that "grade," graduation day—with its tears and smiles—all these, which we encompassed in our high school lives, we leave behind.

Yet, even though we leave this life on a new road just begun, let us cling to the memory of that life, those ideals, ideas, and friends. Let us never forget that the hope of all who taught us and the hope of all mankind is in our knowledge, ability, and willingness to find answers to new problems never before begun . . .



Linda,
We've had some real gre times both in school and out. I hope we remain friends Don't ever forget our great senior year, especially since Dec. 31 about 9:00 P.M. Best of luck and don't forget your friends in Paducah when you get to Western. Watch those Western Boys. They'll need it. Godflies and keep you always.
Love,
Vicki

The inquisitive mind searches and explores in its quest for knowledge.
Teachers, counselors, textbooks, and experience offer the answers we seek.
Libraries, laboratories, and research are the solutions to the secrets that lie just beyond the scope of our minds. It is through our investments in learning that our hunger for knowledge is whetted.

halls packed with students hurrying from class to class . . .

Expansion brings not only more classroom space, additional buildings, and the largest enrollment in the history of Tilghman, but also a greater capacity for understanding. As our minds increase in knowledge, we begin to realize that we stand on the threshold of life.
As our physical growth slackens, the individual development of our minds begins.

shining records of our efforts . . .
. . . merit scholars, proudly hailed for their outstanding accomplishment . . .

Students move
throughout our school and campus.
This is our world,
a sphere formed by our interest and existing upon our ability.
We must not limit the circle of our influence to encompass only a small province.
No, we must broaden our scope.

"Acquisition precedes application.
Knowledge acquired becomes knowledge applied."
Tilghmanites have learned to live by such a motto through guidance, practice, rehearsal, and through experience itself.
Inherent ability can never be disregarded for cleverness and originality are unparalleled assets. Both natural and learned talent helps us to convey to others the beauty of a job well done.

Those brief moments, passing so rapidly, refuse to stop and be captured. Time never hesitates for us and we must turn away from our quiet pleasures to accept study and responsibility.
Fun and excitement play their respective roles in our busy lives, but the "vital" in vitality is mirrored in peace of mind after a long day.

Oh, no! Wrong book—wrong class!

TOGETHERNESS . . .
. . . the crowded lobby at 8:15 . . .
a loving, parental pat as an embarrassed daughter scurries down the hall . ..

Stronger ties bind some students to Tilghman than mere love of academics.
The spirit of fraternity is especially discernible this year with the abundance of "mother-father-daughter-son-sister-brother" relationships.
In enriching the group while benefiting himself, the student learns the importance of his associations. Although the individual is the basic component of society, the whole can exist without one of its parts; but the part without the whole has no purpose.

. . . lunch hour—when friendships (and waistlines) grow . . .
. . . dependence of one individual upon another . . .

MR. MAJOR, DANNY, AND HURDLES
"Life is full of hurdles," said one watch watcher to the other.

REMARKABLE
Mrs. Bryant has definitely made her Mark in life.

TAKING A WALK?

GETTING AHEAD
Two heads are better than one.

"THE BIRDS" IS COMING
Go West, young man!

THE SMILE THAT REFRESHES
"Come as you are party."

P.T.H.S. IS NOT A PLACE

A deserted stadium—a vacant parking lot—and an empty lobby are all inanimate objects, non-existing. Non-existence is frightening, but suddenly there is a footstep . . . The image of a human being mingles with the reflection of a building and the structure comes to life. People have given mortar and stone a reason for being.

THE LAST MILE
Rain or shine I'll see you at the Hole.

MEDITATION
A penny for your thoughts . . . Well, how about the tip?

OBSERVATION ON THE PEOPLE AND THE TIMES

SILENCE IS GOLDEN
If you'll be quiet a minute I'll tell you.

SOLUTION TO THE SNOW
Enden or a shovel?

— IT IS PEOPLE

Friendship, perhaps, is the most significant fact in the life of a Tilghmanite. A student's personality, values, and opinions are influenced by his friends; his most exciting and pleasurable moments are shared with them. Indeed, the most cherished memories of high school include the friends made and the experiences associated with these friends.

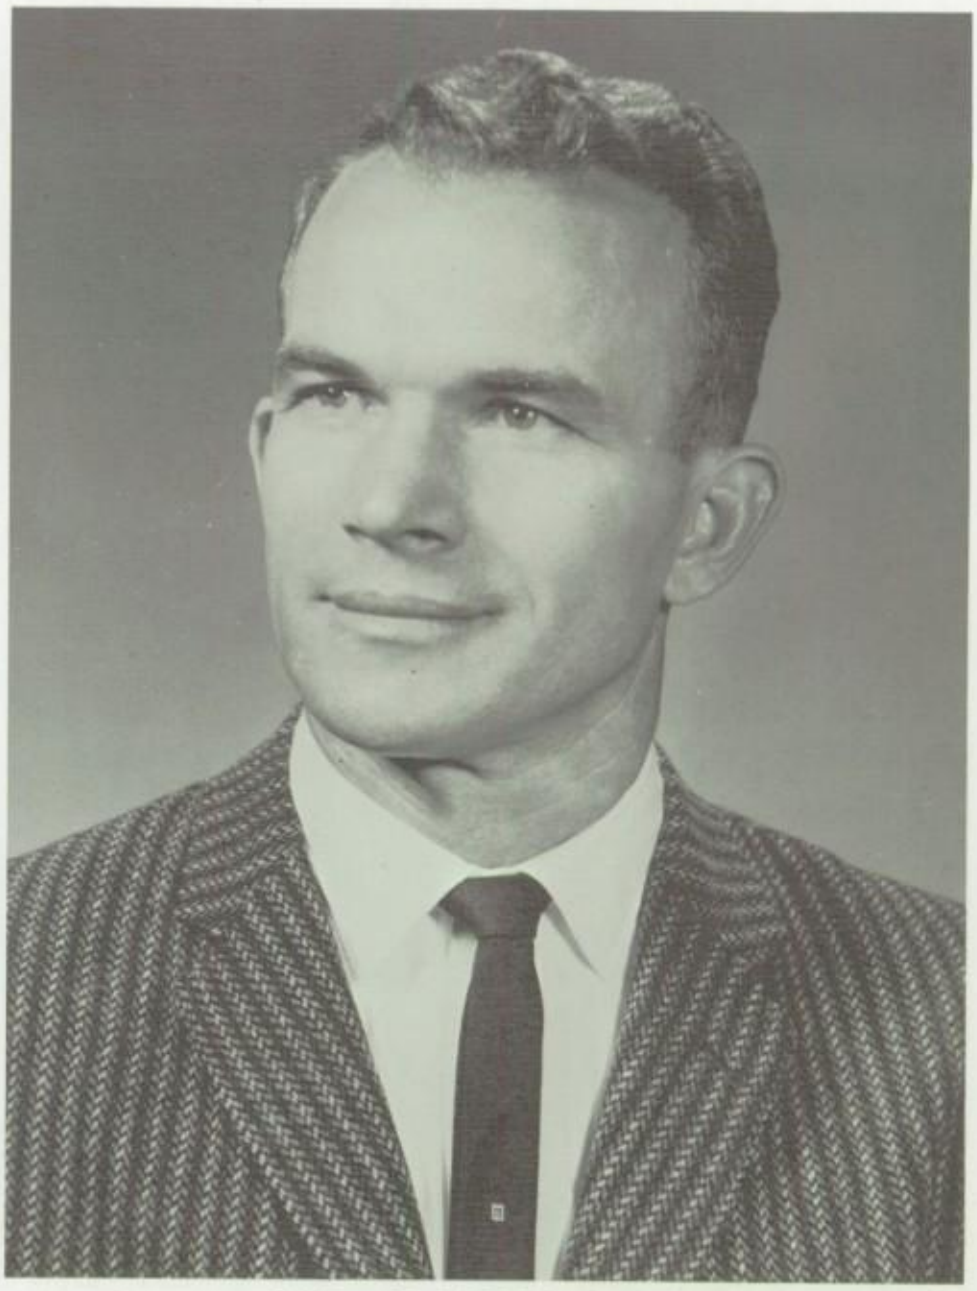
DEAN OF BOYS

In his office as Dean of Boys, Mr. Colby is responsible for the conduct and welfare of all boys attending the school. One of his principal duties is supervising attendance and student discipline. Mr. Colby was kept busy with numerous other responsibilities, including the visual aides and physical fitness programs.

WORDS OF WISDOM
Mr. Colby counsels students during library period.



MR. RALPH COLBY

DEAN OF GIRLS
MRS. RUTH GUNTER

As Dean of Girls, Mrs. Ruth Gunter gives heed to the conduct and well-being of Paducah Tilghman's girls. In this capacity, she is often a disciplinarian. Mrs. Gunter also holds fast to her teaching interests in girls physical education. Mrs. "G" is well known throughout the state as the director of the Drill Corps.

SHE'S THE GREATEST
Nothing pleases Mrs. Gunter more than sharing her time with students who seek her advice.

HIGH SCHOOL AND COLLEGE PROBLEMS: THEIRS TO SOLVE

The Guidance staff, which consists of three counselors, spends many hours of which students are not aware, doing their best to make each pupil's high school and college careers the most successful possible.

Along with their many other responsibilities the Guidance department also annually plans a college night in which representatives from many colleges speak to students and parents on the different phases of college life.

Student activities from college tests to program selections keep the Guidance officers on the run all year.

Biology

Biology courses became an exploration of matter through the fumes of formaldehyde and the lens of a microscope. Traditional biologists observed plant and animal life in the laboratory.

New at Paducah Tilghman this year was the BSCS approach to biology. The new course increased teacher responsibilities and more time for planning, scheduling, preparation, supervision, and counseling with individual students. Through lectures, discussion sessions, visual aids, and lab experiments, facts were associated and interpreted into general theories.

FORCE VECTORS, BUNSEN BURNERS, TEST

Presently, at Paducah Tilghman, students explore physical science, chemistry, and physics by combining textbook knowledge with laboratory experience. Although the courses are not required, many students realize that science, the plaything of the past, is the prophet of the future.

Mr. Major's new PSSC course adds an advanced supplement to the conventional physics. The course concentrates on fewer facts; instead, understanding the facts is emphasized and memorization is almost eliminated. In the physical science course, students learn through laboratory investigation and interpretation of evidence collected through simple experiments.

Tilghman's chemists study the properties, composition, and structure of matter. Mr. Ward's students incorporate new methods of chemical analysis with the traditional approach to atomic structure.

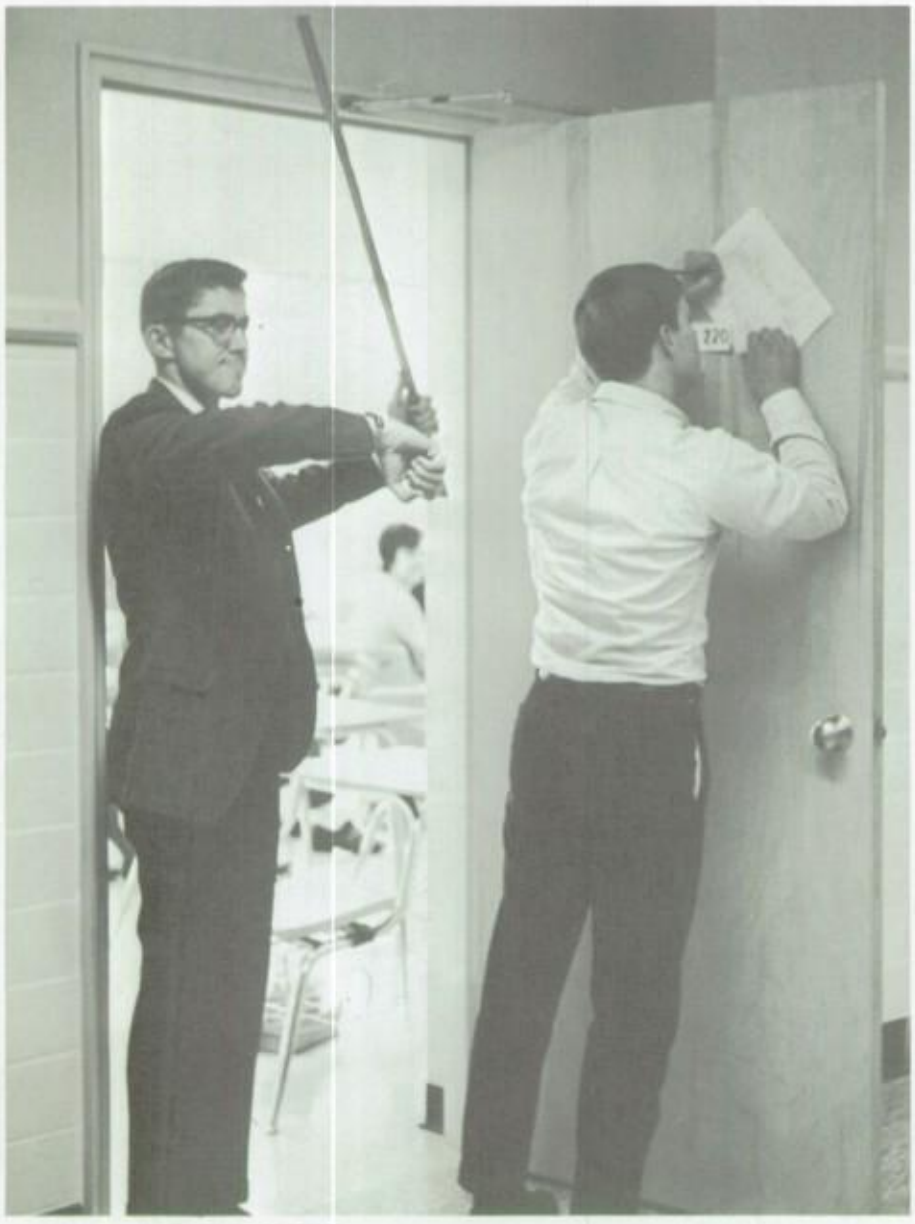
MATH PROBLEMS ACQUAINT PUPILS WITH



MUSCLES READILY VISIBLE
Trig student, Joe Stroud, always gets his homework in on time . . . ?

A highly technical world of tomorrow will call for an even greater amount of knowledge in the field of mathematics. This year the faculty members in the math department provide a large selection from which a student may choose the two units required for graduation. Congruent triangles, logarithms, and tangents all became the means to attaining a comprehension of mathematics.

Geometry was more than haphazard proving of theorems. Sophomores learned to think in a logical manner and apply this to their math procedure. Algebra was also a study in the logical solving of equations and usage of formulas. Senior trig students were baffled at first by sine and cosine curves of their new textbooks.

THROUGH LANGUAGE, AN UNDERSTANDING

Traveling to countries in which a language other than English is spoken presents just one of the many practical reasons for taking a foreign language. For each of the three languages taught at Paducah Tilghman, one finds that his memory as well as his thought organization is constantly being tested.

Learning foreign languages gave those who studied them an increasing appreciation of communications. Spanish students improved their ability to express themselves and be understood through one and a half hours weekly in Spanish Club outside of class. French students will remember the time they spent on "Le Petit Prince", and Latin pupils will not forget the Gallic Wars.

HUMANITIES INFORM

Living a successful life in a free country is the gift of every citizen of the United States. Within Tilghman, students are taught the ways of our country and the world. Such an education includes the studies of U.S. and World History, Sociology and Psychology, Geography, and Bible. An understanding of current affairs can only occur when students are familiar with world culture, histories and governments. The social studies department presents an education in the humanities that produces well-informed citizens, the designers and builders of a better tomorrow.

AN APPRECIATION OF ENGLISH:

Tilghman's English courses stressed the importance of communications as the key to understanding. Sophomore English introduced tenth graders to the world's literature with readings including Silas Marner, A Tale of Two Cities, Alice in Wonderland, and Julius Caesar. The skill of writing clear, well constructed sentences was practiced.

Junior English explored the study of American Literature. It moved from the 17th century and Ben Franklin to the 20th century and Ernest Hemingway. Students reviewed grammar and wrote numerous compositions. The seniors journeyed across the Atlantic and studied the writings of English authors.

EXERCISES THE MIND

Reading is to the mind as exercise is to the body. A garden untended becomes overgrown with weeds, and the mind, if not continually replenished with thought and challenged by problems, becomes stagnant.

Tilghman's library provided reference material, recreational reading, and periodicals to accommodate the needs of the student body. Students are oriented in library procedures by the librarian who is always available to answer whatever questions may arise. Books, whether read for research or for recreation, are the passports to worlds that would otherwise remain unknown.

TRAINED HERE

Future secretaries, clerks, and accountants find that excellent training can be obtained in the courses offered by the department of Business Education.

The teachers of these classes do not instruct their students with only the business major in mind. The fact that business courses are just as necessary for college preparation as well as a business training is shown in the practical application of courses such as typing, shorthand, and bookkeeping during college careers.

THE RAINMAKER
And now I want you to climb up there and swat that family of flies.

In a democratic society the ability to express ideas is as essential as the capacity to have ideas. Tilghman places emphasis upon a well-developed department of speech. Training covers the areas of oratory and drama. Skill is required in research, analysis, correct thinking, and logical reasoning in addition to mastering the principles of proficient presentation.

Competition in debate spurred Mrs. Sanders' debaters to master this year's topic of Government Arbitration. In drama, Mr. Miller directed two plays, "The Rainmaker" and "J.B.", as well as conducting his other speech activities. This year, the Choir presented a well-liked musical, "Amahl."

ALL THAT GOLD
"Keep your hands out of that box!" . . . "But I'm a coin collector!"

MUSIC IS SELF-

Music is a universal language. No translation is necessary for its rhythm speaks for itself and in speaking achieves another level of communication. Various areas of music and its appreciation are included in the music department. Vocal and instrumental techniques are acquired in band, orchestra, and choir, all of which activities involve memorization and frequent evening practices, while theory, harmony, and fundamentals are taught to present an education in this field. As tastes become refined, students discover that in learning they are enjoying and so begin an even more advanced study.

INDUSTRY REQUIRES

MR. RAY D. BROWN
Director of T & I

Realizing that as the common laborer vanishes the skilled worker becomes more in demand, the young man, aspiring to be part of the working world, channels his attentions to the industrial arts. Whether preparing for a future vocation or an interesting hobby, he becomes familiar with tools and materials by learning both machine and manual techniques, and then applies this knowledge to gain practical experience by developing the individual projects that the course requires. Woodworking, machinery, and mechanical drawing are merely a few of the possible careers or avocations open to a person trained in the industrial arts.

The co-ordination, alertness, and overall physical fitness of each student is the goal of the Tilghman physical education department. Volleyball, football, and softball are just a few of the many sports which test each student's athletic ability. In accordance with the National Physical Fitness program, physical education classes also run through a series of exercises and tests.

Paducah Tilghman provides the student with the opportunity for developing his co-ordination and acquiring a new attitude toward physical health. Active participation in gym classes enables the individual to mature mentally and physically.

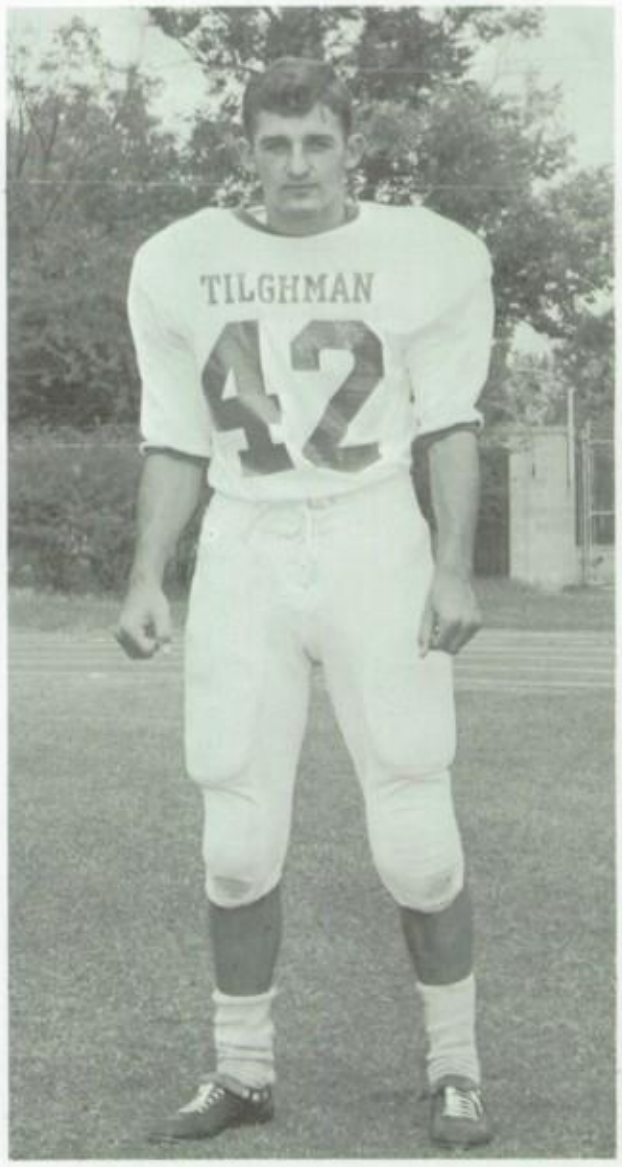
FEATURES

Bryan Stewart, Mr. Tilghman of 1966, is active in many phases of school life. He is president of the senior class, secretary of the Key Club, sports editor of the Pathways, and a member of the football team.

Miss Tilghman, Inda Lane Thompson, has been class vice-president for three years, and served as secretary of the Student Council. Her enthusiasm in leading cheers at football and basketball games is a familiar sight to all Tilghmanites.



BRYAN STEWART AND INDA LANE THOMPSON

Chosen by seniors as their best all-around classmates, Bryan Stewart and Inda Lane Thompson received the high honors of Mr. and Miss Tilghman. They represent the high standards and ideals set by Paducah Tilghman and its students.

HOMECOMING

The spirit of Homecoming was again renewed this year with increased enthusiasm. During the pre-game activities of the Murray High football game, October 15, 1965, the three candidates, Charlotte Metzger, Mary Rieke, and Cherri Conner, were presented with their escorts, Marty Curtis, Dan Brown, and Steve Jackson. Jim Varble and Terry Wood, the Captains of the football team, crowned the Homecoming Queen for 1965, Charlotte Metzger, and presented her with roses. The Homecoming Dance was held in the gymnasium in honor of the queen and her court.

DRILL CORPS

The Drill Corps of Paducah Tilghman High School is a dedicated precision marching team which presents spectacular performance at football halftime shows. Organized in 1933, the "Marching 54" offers to its members opportunity to participate in an outstanding extracurricular activity. The girls learn of the important values of friendships, showmanship, and spirit which make the Drill Corps such an unsurpassed organization. Mrs. Ruth Gunter, affectionately known as "Mrs. G." has been the sponsor for the group for twenty years. In April of each year, replacement tryouts are held in which members are selected for their marching ability, personality, and scholastic standing.

CHEERLEADERS

An integral part of every football and basketball game, home and away, are the Tilghman cheerleaders. Sponsored by Miss Nancy Gunn, the cheerleaders decorate the school, plan pep rallies, and stimulate general school spirit and team support. This year's squad has been especially outstanding. At a cheerleading clinic at the University of Kentucky, Tilghman received two first place ribbons in competition, and Roxie Thomas was elected Miss Kentucky Cheerleader of 1965.

no matter what you become after graduation, you'll find that reading a newspaper daily will be an asset to you in many ways.

The man or woman who keeps abreast of current events is always a step ahead of those who don't — more interesting, better prepared, more alert.

To undergraduates, we would suggest you begin now developing the habit of reading a newspaper every day — it will help you in your school work and better acquaint you with the world into which you, too, will soon step on your own.

The newspaper is everybody's textbook — and even more interesting than most!

Way back here
where no one looks,
I'll sign my name
on your year book.
Best wishes, Linda, for success and happiness in the future. It has been a pleasure having you in class this year.
Lots of luck.
Wallace E. Felle

Linda,
Always remember all the good times we've had the past twelve years. We've gone to school together for almost time, and it doesn't seem possible that it's almost over.
Best of luck always!

Linda,
Remember the fun we've had in our Words classes this year.
And don't forget our good old times at Juco.
Love,
Carolyn
